Hecause we have just been informed that he is a good dish-washer, and we presume a good bottle-opener, too, having performed his services at a pink to given in honor of the twenty-fourth birthday of the son of a friend of ours.

It's so good to be useful around the house. We can do a few things ourself, and we have developed into a splend, dabay-minder and a good dog-chaser.

We used to be fine at making fires, but since all our wood and coal has been used up we have get out of practice.

Our good friend Lee, at the Blion, realizes now that his picture on a piece of metal doesn't make money. A lady friend of hish had one of his little nickel photos in her pocket, with some other souvenirs, and got it mixed up with coins of the realm. She went into a canndy shop to get some chawing gum, and handed out the little picture of Lee's.
"His face is not good for chewing gum here," said the main.
And it came to pass that the picture was put back into the purse.

Why is it that so many pretty girls drift into the telephone business? If you do not believe me just haif a private exchange, jut your feet on the desk, pun your error them to come around. You need not advertuse. They will find you out. If nine out of every ten who call on you are not just the prettest ever, then Jill cat my hat. Of course, you'll choost the mettest. If you need more than, say-three, then you will hold three quests, i seast by the card. In adaiton to being "rett" the average telephone girl is a fairly bright proposition. There is more human nature humming its way bick and forth over the economic wife than course is electrical current, and the telephone girl as a rule is dead next—and generally dead wise. Few of the egifls girly to be old whits—don't have o, see! Lots of pretty decent fellows fall in love with the voices first and marry the girls afterward. And gold teeth! Every blessed telephone girl I know has a gold tooth. If you do not
